

Columbus Direct wins Award for Best Mortgage Payment Protection Insurance (MPPI) Provider

Columbus Direct has won the prestigious honour of Best Mortgage Payment Protection Insurance Provider 2011 – awarded by What Mortgage magazine. It is the second year in a row Columbus has won the award.

The nominations for the awards came from readers of What Mortgage magazine and their website. Thousands of nominations were made across multiple categories, from which a shortlist was presented to a judging panel, made up of the country's leading independent financial advisers.

The judges scored each company across a number of areas including price, value, product features, customer service and support. The winner was the one who scored the highest average score.

Simon Jones, head of Protection Products for Columbus said “we are delighted to have picked up this award in consecutive years. Columbus has always been committed to delivering great quality and value products to customers and this award provides some recognition of the fact that we are delivering on our promise.”
